A JOURNEY THROUGH HISTORY

Vitoria-Gasteiz, capital of the Basque Country, is a green, sustainable city with a high quality of life, but it's also a city with a medieval flavour and with plenty of family-friendly plans for you to enjoy.

With almost one thousand years of history, the medieval quarter of Vitoria-Gasteiz is practically intact and was declared a Monumental Site in 1997. Located on top of a hill right in the middle of the city, we can reach it by climbing the steep streets known as "cantones" but also via mechanical ramps or by using the lift. Its narrow streets retain the names of the trades that once took place there: Herrería (Ironwork), Zapatería (Shoemaking), Cuchillería (Knife making). Follow its layout and you'll discover medieval squares like Las Burullerías or Machete, the medieval wall, tower houses and a former roadhouse called El Portalón (15th century), Renaissance palaces like Montehermoso and Villa Suso, Gothic churches and the Santa María Cathedral (12th century). The renovation work on this temple has unveiled several secrets concerning the city's history. Would you like to know what they are? The guided tour, which is accessible for the most part, allows us to visit it from its foundations to its tower, where we are rewarded with the best panoramic view of the city. Information and bookings at: www.catedralvitoria.eus/en

You'll also find façades painted with beautiful murals, unique museums like the Fournier Cards Museum with a large collection of cards from all countries and eras, charming shops and a wide gastronomic offer for all ages: pintxos and menus with traditional recipes but not neglecting hamburgers, sandwiches and pizzas. The Tourist Office organises children's guided tours around the Medieval Quarter for the whole family. v-g.eus/childrenstour

We can leave the medieval quarter passing by Los Arquillos, Neoclassical buildings designed by Olaguibel, an architect from Vitoria, to compensate for the slope of the hill and connect the medieval city with the Neoclassical one. The Plaza de España and that of the Virgen Blanca are the main centres of the city and host its festive and cultural activities.

The pedestrian streets of the centre are full of terraces where you can have a bite to eat. The Dato and San Prudencio streets and the Plaza de los Fueros are emblematic places with high commercial activity. And who can resist something sweet? Bakeries in Vitoria enjoy a well-deserved reputation. Try specialities such as truffles and chocolates, pastries, nougats and sweets. They're simply delicious. v-g.eus/sweets

THE FLORIDA PARK AND THE LA SENDA ROUTE

THE GREEN BELT, ON FOOT OR BY BICYCLE

Declared European Green Capital (2012) and Green Global City (2019), and Sustainable Tourist Destination since 2016, it's the provincial capital with the most green areas per inhabitant: over 130,000 trees with 150 different species. But the pride of the city is the Green Belt that surrounds it, a belt of parks that stretches over 33 kilometres, with forests, streams, wetlands and mounts that have been recovered for leisure purposes and to enjoy the environment.

At the Tourist Office you'll find a map with three routes that you can follow on foot or by bicycle: the Armentia Forest, Olárizu and the most emblematic, the Wetlands of Salburua. That's where you'll find Ataria, the Nature Interpretation Centre that offers several activities. Ataria: v-g.eus/atariaen

In Salburua, there are observatories where you can view aquatic birds and get a closer look at a herd of deer in surroundings that are home to the European mink, an endangered species. If you like nature, check out the "Nature" menu on our website: v-g.eus/tourism

AN AREA FOR SPORT AND CULTURE

In this city, it's so easy to fully embrace sport. 150 km of cycle paths and sports facilities in every district, the Civic Centres, are other hallmarks of the city. They are equipped with covered swimming pools, climbing walls, paddle tennis courts, skating rinks, etc... most of them allow entry for non-members upon payment of an access fee.

In summer, you can have fun at the open-air swimming pools at the Gamarra sports complex. Another option is to strap on your skates and visit the large ice rink at the BAKH, very close to Ataria and the Buesa Arena, home to the great local basketball team, Baskonia.

Outside of the city, the area of Álava offers stunning natural surroundings. Just a few kilometres away, and connected by a cycling path, you can take part in water sports at the Zadorra reservoirs where you'll also find beaches for swimming in the Garaio and Landa parks, 3 of them blue flag beaches.

The natural parks of Valderejo with one of the largest colonies of griffon vultures, Gorbea and Aizkorri-Aratz, allow you to go hiking, horse riding, climbing and to discover the natural surroundings of the mountains, forests and waterfalls such as Gujuli and El Salto del Nervión (the highest one in the peninsula). They'll take your breath away!

Another obligatory visit is the Florida Park, a Romantic garden from 1820 which is like a forest with its rivers, hills and trails, under the branches of century-old trees of exotic species. Concerts are held in its Bandstand and, at Christmas, the park is the backdrop for the Monumental Nativity Scene, with life-sized figures. Just next to it, in the gardens of the "New Cathedral", we can enjoy the fountains and look at somewhat strange sculptures of a crocodile and a rhinoceros. Take a good look! The Tourist Office offers guided tours to find out more about the plant species and the park's history.

A 3km route embarks from the Florida Park which you can follow on foot or by bicycle, along the La Senda Path, flanked by rows of gigantic banana trees until you reach the Romanesque hermitage of Armentia, from the 12th century. This path is a showcase of palatial houses, some of which are home to museums such as that of Fine Arts and the Armoury Museum, or Ajuria Enea, the house where the Lehendakari of the Basque Government lives. You'll see the Mendizorrotza Pavilion, the football ground of Deportivo Alavés.

To find out about Basque culture, gastronomy, craftsmanship and traditions the best thing to do is to visit the rural areas and discover the typical farmhouses in the north where they make cheese, cider or collect honey and the beautiful towns of the Rioja Alavesa, to take in the vineyards and learn about the wine-making process. There are several local festivals where there are markets and you can enjoy our music and traditions.

And, to round it all off, we return to history: prehistoric dolmens such as Sorginetxe in Salvatierra, or La Hechicera (The Sorceress) in Elvillar, the site of La Hoya, from the Bronze Age, in Laguardia, castles and walled towns await us.
